Daddy's Little Girl

A story of Mia and her Daddy

Written by Dr. Samrin Sarwar

Preface

This story is inspired by, and lovingly dedicated to, my daughter Yusra Hayat.

Yusra, you are five years old as I write this, and your whole world is your Daddy. He is the doctor who wakes you with hugs and kisses, and you love him so very much, and I love you just as much.

All day long you long for him. You wait and wait while he is at work, and the moment he comes home in the evening and gets ready to go to his clinic, you cling to him and sweetly persuade him to take you along. That moment, when he says yes, is your very happiest moment of all.

I made this little book so that one day, when you are all grown up, you can open it and remember how big your love was when you were small, and how deeply you were loved, always.

With all my love,

Mumma

Mia and Her Daddy

Mia is a little girl who loves her Daddy more than anything in the world. His smile makes her happy, his hugs make her feel safe, and his presence makes every day special. To Mia, Daddy is not just her father. He is her favourite person in the whole world.

Getting Ready for Work

Every morning, Mia waits excitedly for Daddy to get ready for work. She watches him put on his white doctor's coat and hang his stethoscope around his neck. She picks up her little bag and gets ready to go with him. Her eyes sparkle with excitement because she knows she is going to spend time with her favourite person.

Hand in Hand

Mia holds Daddy's hand as they walk to the clinic. She loves walking beside him, looking at the trees, flowers and people along the way. Sometimes she swings their joined hands and smiles up at him. Being with Daddy is her favourite place to be.

Daddy Helps Everyone

At the clinic, Daddy becomes busy seeing his patients. He listens carefully, checks their eyes and speaks to everyone kindly. Mia sits quietly nearby and watches him work. She feels proud of her Daddy because he helps people see the beautiful world around them.

Waiting for Daddy

Sometimes Daddy has many patients to see. Mia sits in her little corner with her favourite toy and waits patiently. She looks at the clock and then toward Daddy's room. She misses him even when he is only a few steps away, and she looks forward to the moment when he will be free.

Daddy Is Free!

At last, Daddy finishes seeing his patients. The moment Mia sees him, her face lights up. Daddy opens his arms, and Mia runs straight into his warm embrace. He lifts her gently and gives her a big hug. In that moment, nothing matters more to Mia than being close to Daddy.

Little Doctor Mia

At home, Mia loves to play doctor just like Daddy. She takes her toy stethoscope and gently listens to his heartbeat. “Daddy, are you feeling better?” she asks with a serious little face. Daddy pretends to be her patient and smiles proudly. Mia loves copying the kind and caring things that Daddy does every day.

Daddy's Hugs Are Magic

When Mia feels tired, Daddy cuddles her close. When she feels upset, he comforts her with gentle words and a loving hug. His hugs make her worries feel smaller and her happiness grow bigger. Mia may be little, but her love for Daddy is enormous.

Every Moment with Daddy

Mia loves every moment she spends with Daddy. They walk together, laugh together, play little games and share stories. Even the simplest things become wonderful when Daddy is beside her. To Mia, happiness is holding his hand, hearing his laughter and knowing that they are together.

My Daddy, My World

Every day, Mia finds a hundred little reasons to love her Daddy even more. He is the hand she holds, the smile she looks for and the hug she always wants to return to. Wherever life takes her, Daddy's love makes her feel brave, safe and special.

Mia hugs him tightly and whispers, “I love you, Daddy!”

The End

And in her little heart, one thing is always true: Daddy is her whole little world.